SCIENCE IN KENTUCKY.

Wow! What is why in Old Kentucky Navy Colonel ever had a verminous appendix? That was reckoned to be bad. The history of the Colonels, from the first until today, shows no appendicitis. Ever getting down their way. No cause was ever given. For nobody ever knew, anymore than why the pastures should have grassed themselves in blue.

And no one cared a hoot, just as long as in the corn. The kernels made the Colonels glad indeed that they were born. And now progressive science, that uplifting, perfect boon to everything that's modern, tells us why they are immune. And all Kentucky Colonels line up in brave array to drink a health to Science two dozen times a day. And then some.

MANDATE ARRIVES

Paper From United States Supreme Court Making Maysville Dry Finally Shows Up.

Thursday the long looked for mandate from the United States Supreme Court at Washington, D. C., arrived in this city, it being sent to the lawyers for the dry forces who waged a legal battle against the wets in all the courts of the land. The mandate was immediately forwarded to the Court of Appeals at Frankfort where it will be recorded and the mandate of the Court of Appeals will then be sent to the clerk of the Circuit Court of Mason county, a copy of which will be read in open court and then recorded in the minutes of the court. As the next term of the Circuit Court is not until March, it will be some time before the mandate will actually be in effect.

MISS SWEENEY

Head of Home Economics Department of State University, Addressed the Woman's Club.

One of the most helpful addresses ever made before the Woman's Club of this city was that delivered Thursday afternoon by Prof. Sweeney, head of the Home Economics Department of State University at Lexington.

Miss Sweeney had talked but a few minutes before she had the entire interest of her audience. It was a plain, every-day subject she dealt with, but under her treatment each division of the subject, although a commonplace topic of daily conversation, grew until it assumed undreamed of importance. Her analysis of different foods as to their relative value to the body in their properties of lime, phosphates and iron, seemed almost magical. Her disposition of the drug question as a fallacy was convincing. She explained how one vegetable contained more iron than was to be found in the so-called iron bitters. Her menus are ones of simplicity and economy.

She closed by quoting from Dr. Devine of New York, who had found from experience and investigation that much of the crime in that city originated from ill prepared food and homes that were dirty and not fit for habitation.

It was a pity that the hall was not filled to overflowing. Miss Sweeney will always be sure of a warm welcome here.

BADLY INJURED

Fifteen-Year-Old Lewis County Boy Caught by a Falling Tree.

Clarence Tolie, 15-year-old son of John Tolie of Vangeburg, was seriously injured Saturday by being caught between a falling tree and another that stood near.

He had been cutting a good sized chestnut tree for wood and when he thought about ready to fall, he turned to tell his little brother to get out of the way, when the tree fell in the opposite direction from which he expected and he was caught between the falling tree and another near by. His head was severely bruised and his scalp torn to such an extent that it required eleven stitches to close the wounds.

As the tree fell it jumped off the stump and the butt struck him in the stomach, from which injury he seems to suffer more than from the wounds in his scalp. He came home without assistance, but suffered greatly from loss of blood.

COMPETITION.

What do you know about the subject of "competition"? Is there anything left for you to learn? Is it true that "competition is the life of trade?"

Let us see.

A merchant in a certain town has no competition. He has everything his own way. He thinks he has the people right where he wants them and that they will have to go to him or go without.

He runs along nicely for a time and then begins to get careless. You notice that his floor needs sweeping, the windows could stand soap and water, dust collects on the goods and the counters, and cobwebs are seen in the corners.

Soon he thinks he ought to make more money with less work. He pushes prices up a cent or two and his pocketbook gets fatter. That looks good to him and he shoves the price up again.

He doesn't take the trouble to study his customers, their needs, and the conditions that prevail, because he has no competition. His store gets dingier and less inviting, and it lacks that homelike appearance of welcome when his customers call.

In time the customers begin to get tired, for they feel that they are being stung. Some turn to the mail order man, while others go miles out of their way to reach another town. They want something for their money.

Soon the merchant notices a shrinkage and wakes up. He makes desperate efforts to entice his customers back to him. But it is useless. They have had enough.

This merchant's business has been irreparably damaged by his indifference, neglect and greed, caused by the lack of competition.

But there is another side to this picture—one that is brighter and is seldom turned to the wall. Where competition exists there is life, and energy and brightness, and where these things are the people will go.

Competition brings to the surface and into use the best that is in every man, where otherwise these qualifications would often lie dormant and without avail. And these qualifications, when brought in play, attract and draw and hold the allegiance of the people.

The public asks no more than a fair return on its money, and if there is not sufficient competition in the home town to insure this then they will look elsewhere.

No man can expect to secure and hold the trade of any class of people just because he is himself. He may look good to himself, but if his goods are of proper quality and the price is right they will discount his personality a hundred per cent.

And competition forces every man to keep the right kind of goods and make the right kind of prices, and it is mainly quality and price that keeps trade in the home town.

The more competition you find in a town the cleaner and brighter the stores will be, and the tastier the displays, and the more attractive the price. These things spell life, and life is always appealing to the people.

It is competition that has developed our magnificent school system, and developed and broadened our religious institutions, and our railway systems, and the thousand and one enterprises that are making this the greatest commercial nation of the globe. It is the outlet and overflow of unbounded energy and ingenuity superinduced solely by necessity and competition.

To compete successfully with an adversary a merchant must know his people, and anticipate their desires, and meet them half way in every step they take. The people can be won, but they can not be bought.

The most successful merchants the world has ever produced are consistent and persistent users of advertising space in their local papers. They advertise because they know the people demand it and insist upon having what they demand.

The local merchant who uses the advertising columns of his home paper keeps the goods the people want, and makes his prices right, need have no fear of competition. It will make him, as it has made others before him.

But failure to advertise when competition is in the field is the best and most effective means of sending the buyer to the other fellow.

HOW TO DO IT.

William Randolph Hearst has written an open letter denouncing what he calls the "free-trade policy" of the Democratic party, a policy which, he declares, has "continually plunged the country into the depths of financial depressions during Democratic administration" and which has "invariably resulted in a deficiency of revenues which have to be met by extraordinary taxation or bond issues."

Mr. Hearst describes "our so-called war-taxes" as a matter of fact to be "not war-taxes at all. They are free-trade taxes."

Mr. Hearst's language is exact and penetrating. But it will fail to reach the center of Democratic intelligence. The "free-trade policy" of the Democratic party, "disastrous failure" though it is, as Mr. Hearst says, is dear to the heart of the doctrinaire who now rules Democracy; and it will not be abandoned. If Mr. Hearst really wishes to witness a change in the economic policies of the government, he will join in the effort to place the government in Republican hands. The Republican party is the proper field for Mr. Hearst's activities if he really means business. Come on in, Mr. Hearst! The water's fine.

A committee of officials in the various departments at Washington has been formed for the purpose of giving "publicity" to the "constructive work" being carried on. The announcement says that the "publicity" will be non-political. After pursuing a policy of secrecy for two years and a half, the administration has suddenly discovered the need of publicity. It forms a committee of Democrats to give out "non-political" information in regard to what the administration is doing. And they are simple enough to think a considerable number of people will be fooled by this scheme of self-praise.

The dangers of catching the grip in public assemblages are keenly realized at church time Sunday morning, but they are seen to be largely illusory when it comes time to go to the movie show Monday evening.

Jesse Swalley brought the News editor an ear of corn raised on his place this year that was a curiosity. Said ear of corn was half red and half white. Some folks call it a "skew ball," and it is said that the first year it is planted it comes out red and white and the next year it is white and red and then it changes back again. If that ain't a skew ball, what is it, is what we would like to know.

(Interior Journal.)

The Rev. J. G. A box of twenty-four of the beauties was shipped to the Rev. Livingston by his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Leete, by her husband, who resided in Washington for a number of years. The apples were raised in the Spokane country and the sample seen here is as hard and firm as when first plucked from the tree. During the shipment of the box it was opened by some hungry express messenger and four of the apples eaten and the box nailed up again. Mrs. Leete planned to return to her home in the far west some weeks ago, but has been delayed on account of illness of her baby.

THIS DATE IN HISTORY.

January 21.

+ + + + +

Admiral Sir Henry Bradwardine Jackson, First Sea Lord of the British Admiralty, the man who put the latest scientific discoveries into Britain's navy, is 61 years old today. When Sir John Fisher resigned as First Sea Lord last May, the opportunity had come to reward the man of science. Fisher and his predecessors had been practical fighting men, with stout sailors' hearts. Admiral Jackson, on the other hand, had not been a popular hero, and was little known to the British public. But he had long been known as the cleverest man in the entire navy; for he had adapted the Hertzian waves for wireless communication in the navy; was the only naval officer in the Royal Society, and had much to do with the adoption of modern equipment and the designing of the latest warships. Admiral Jackson was born at Barnsley, England, on January 21, 1855, and entered the navy at 13. He won advancement by slow stages, and became Controller of the Navy in 1905, and in 1911 was made commander of the Royal Naval War College. Since 1912 he has been chief of staff of the navy.

Dr. G. Sterling Ryerson, president of the Canadian Red Cross and Surgeon General of the Canadian forces, 62 years old today.

Hon. Francis E. McGovern, former Governor of Wisconsin, 50 years old today.

Dr. Thomas V. Christie, noted war veteran and missionary, 73 years old today.

James J. Storrow, Boston banker and political leader, 52 years old today.

Nathaniel C. Fowler, Jr., of Boston, advertising expert, 58 years old today.

1816—Day of mourning in France, to stone for execution of Louis XIV, twenty-three years before. His timorous to prevent bloodshed stirred the wrath of the violent leaders around him and he was beheaded.

1839—Great fire at Constantinople destroyed the "Sublime Porte."

1850—Died Henry Hallan, famous English historian, aged 81.

1879—Prussians bombarded St. Denis in siege of Paris.

1887—Interstate Commerce Bill became a law.

1896—Shipwreck of the Chilean in the Great Lakes.

1908—France received $1,600,000 in settlement of claim to right of way for Panama canal.

1914—Japanese Foreign Minister announced the replies of the United States to protests against the California Anti-Allen land bills were unacceptable.

1915—Big foreign trade convention of American manufacturers opened at St. Louis.

1915—The War—Germans retake positions lost to the French in the St. Mihiel region. France claims the German campaign broken. Fighting resumed in small battles on Russian front.

If Henry Ford had spent that $275,000 on a steam yacht for his own pleasure, instead of on an expedition to the noble cause of peace, every one would call him a sound and level-headed man.

Once in four years the male sex recklessly relaxes discipline and permits those audacious girls to do the inviting at the Leap Year dances.

HOW'S THIS?

The average on the 188,000 pounds we sold the past week was $11.67, while the whole market was $10.61.

Now, this $1.07 difference does not indicate that the Buyers (who are intelligent men) can be forced or persuaded into giving us that much advantage, but rather that our Tobacco was better than the average.

All we claim is that we try to prevent any crop or even basket from being neglected, and bid it up to what we think its value, thus backing our judgment by taking all we bid off, giving the owner a clean sale.

Do you see any difference in this statement and some others you see in print.

DON'T BE MISLED

Maysville Citizens Should Read and Heed This Advice

Kidney trouble is dangerous and often fatal.

Don't experiment with something new and untried.

Use a tested kidney remedy.

Begins with Dr. Donn's Kidney Pills.

Used in kidney troubles 50 years.

Recommended here and everywhere.

A Maysville citizen's statement form convincing proof.

It's local testimony—it can be investigated.

Henry Calenstein, blacksmith, Poplar street, Maysville, says: "Dr. Donn's Kidney Pills are the best of kidney medicines. I have used different kinds and no other has ever equaled this one. When my kidneys were out of order and I had pain in my back, I heard of Dr. Donn's Kidney Pills and used them. They stopped the pains and my kidneys became strong. The cure has been permanent."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Dr. Donn's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mr. Calenstein. Foster-Milburn Co., Prope, Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Belle Davidson, aged 92, who was the oldest school teacher in West Virginia, died at her home at Clarkburg after a week's illness of pneumonia. She taught continuously for 62 years. Miss Davidson was the daughter of Dr. David Davidson, who founded the old Davidson Fort on the site near the present town of Bridgeport.

"FAGGED-OUT" WOMEN

Will Find a Helpful Suggestion In This Letter.

Overworked, run down, "fagged out" women who feel as though they could hardly drag about, should profit by Mrs. Carter's experience. She says: "I am the mother of six children and I got so weak and run-down that I couldn't eat anything and it seemed almost impossible for me to get around and do my work. I tried different doctors' remedies without benefit. I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it, and received so much benefit from the firm bottle that I continued to take it, and it built up my strength and made me strong and well. I consider Vinol the best medicine I have ever taken, and advise all weak, run-down women to try it." Mrs. Besale Carter, State Road, N. C.

If all the tired, overworked, rundown women in Maysville could only realize how our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol, supplies the vital elements necessary to build up blood and strength, we wouldn't be able to supply the demand.

WASHINGTON THEATER.

In the supporting cast of Laura Hope Crews in her famous success, "Blackbird," are such well known members of the Jesse L. Lasky company as Thomas Meighan, Florence Dagmar, Raymond Hatton, George Gehhardt, Jane Wolf and others. This is the second picture Miss Crews has appeared in under the Lasky banner. The first was "The Fighting Hope." "Blackbirds" will be the attraction at the Washington tonight.

Wind did considerable damage in Fleming county last week. W. W. Worrell reports small losses as follows, in which the Fleming County Mutual is interested: Bob Turner of near Danbury, had a feed barn unrooted and a tobacco barn moved off its foundation. Sherley Collins and Baxter Wells sustained small damage to their barns, as did also J. H. McCormick and Mrs. Mattingly.

R. Dawson, a Smoky City pilot, will take a gasoline boat owned by the American Steel and Wire Company, to Metropolis, Ill.

The steamer Majestic, now plying in the excursion business at New Orleans, will be returned to Memphis in June and entered in opposition to the steamer Idlewild.

The towboat Sprague, which left Louisville some time ago with one of the largest tows that has gone down the river in several years, is coming back with a tow of empties.

The steamer Greenwood of the Greene line, ran into the Manchester ferryboat last Wednesday and came very near sinking it. Both boats escaped with little damage.

The towboat J. R. Ware will clear from Cincinnati for Baton Rouge, La., with a tow of sand flats and a sand digger. Pilots Stewart Connor and Harry Doss will take the boat on her 1,381 mile trip.

Frank Elvin, an old time steamboat man, who is known from Pittsburgh to New Orleans, is reported to be in a serious condition at his home in Louisville. Elvin is 91 years old and lives on the second floor of the old opera house in the flooded district.

The big side wheel steamers of the Louisville and Cincinnati Packet Company were put back in the trade Tuesday. The boats were withdrawn from the trade on account of not having clearance under the Cincinnati bridges.

It will be impossible to recover the bodies from the wreck of the steamer Kanawha under present conditions, says Captain W. E. Roe. He reiterated his previous statements by saying that nothing could be done toward the recovery of the bodies until the waters of the Ohio river recede. Roe as wired the Safety Board of the state of West Virginia. He stated that he is doing all in his power to recover the bodies of those lost in the Kanawha wreck.

A petition asking for the appointment of a trustee under the statute of limitations of liability was filed in the United States Court in admiralty at Parkersburg, W. Va., Monday by the Kanawha Packet Company, which operated the wrecked steamer Kanawha. Captain Philip Hornbrook of Parkersburg, was named trustee and three appraisers were appointed. An order was issued by the court providing that all claimants for damages growing out of the sinking of the steamer shall appear before a commissioner appointed to hear such claims and restraining the prosecution of any suits against the company pending the case in admiralty.

One of the greatest disasters to ever occur on the upper Ohio, if not the greatest, was the collision on July 4, 1883, of the Scioto and John D. Loomis near Wheeling. Forty or fifty persons lost their lives, many of them being young women. The pilot of the Scioto, it is alleged, was intoxicated with several women in the pilot house. The Scioto was carrying an excursion. The boat sank and was later raised and taken to the Point Pleasant docks for repairs. She afterwards ran for some time as the sidewheel packet regular in the Parkersburg and Wheeling trade. Her engines have been in service for twenty years or more on the Green Line.

PANAMAN'S EXPOSITION

The Twelve-Year-Old Little Republic Celebrating—Many Things of Carious Interest There.

Panama, January 21.—To commemorate the discovery of the Pacific ocean by Balboa the National Exposition of the republic of Panama will be opened today. The charm of a tropical setting and of picturesque native sports and industries will be combined with the more striking features of great American cities. It is the first big exposition held in Central America, and the close relations of the natives with Spain and the United States have brought participation by those countries, as well as representation from many of the Central and South American countries. Cuba has also joined in the event, and has constructed its own building on the fairgrounds.

After the 100-day exposition is over the buildings will be retained as a governmental center and as museums and places of gathering. One of the most interesting exhibits is that of Ecuador, in the form of a collection of relics of the people who inhabited Central and South America in ancient times. This exhibit rivals in interest the many exhibits brought from the San Francisco Exposition by the United States government.

One of the buildings will show the growth of the infant republic, now only a dozen years old. The natural resources, industries, arts and crafts of the people will be shown effectively. A palace of education has been constructed and other buildings are devoted to agriculture, fine arts, government, commerce and industry.

NEW INVENTION

May Do Away With Telegraph Operators At No Distant Day.

A new invention is being operated in the offices of the Pennsylvania railroad at Columbus, O., which may do away with newspaper and railroad telegraphers. This invention is a telegraphic typewriter or printing telegraph. It is now being used by the Pennsylvania railroad between there and Pittsburg. The machine, it is claimed, does the work of four operators by sending about eighty railroad messages per hour. This is at the rate of seventy-five words a minute. No receiving operator is necessary. By way of contrast, it is pointed out that a good operator, by key and sounder, with the Morse method, can average only thirty-five to forty ordinary railroad messages per hour.

The prediction is made that the machine will be adopted by the press wire services. When that is done, it is claimed, a newspaper reporter will take the place of a telegrapher and will sit down at the keyboard and send his stories over the wire as he writes it with the editors at the receiving end of the line tearing off the copy as it comes in.

It is claimed that an expert telegrapher is not needed to operate one of these machines. It consists of an ordinary typewriter keyboard over which the messages are sent and two typewriters are installed at each end of the line. Each and every depressed key will print a corresponding letter on a typewriter in the office of the sending operator and will also print the same letter on the receiving typewriter, at the other end of the line. The typewriters are loaded with roll paper. The attendant merely tears off the messages as they come. While one of the typewriters in the Columbus office is recording what is being sent from here the other machine is receiving another message that is being sent at the same time over the same wire from Pittsburg.

One of the keys rings a bell on the machine at the other end of the line by which the attendant at the other end is signaled to insert carbon paper or special forms when desired, or for any other reason when special attention is desired. No special battery or power is required to operate the printers.

They are merely old typewriters with the keyboards removed and other attachments made. After the combination of signals, or electrical impulses, are received over the line, the letters are printed mechanically by the operation of a small motor driving a shaft.

WHEAT PROBLEM

Not Enough Produced In The World To Cover The Squares On A Checkerboard.

"Suppose you take a checkerboard, place one grain of wheat on the first square and double the number on each of the other sixty-three squares. How many grains do you suppose would be necessary to cover the last square?"

This question was put to The Ledger the other day and back went the guess, "Oh, ten or fifteen bushels."

"Ten or fifteen bushels?" Why, do you know that there is not enough wheat produced in the entire world to cover that last square?"

The suggestion really sounded foolish, but when one takes out his pencil and starts to figure, he will mighty soon come to the conclusion that it would take millions of bushels of wheat to cover the last square.

Just start the checkerboard of sixty-four squares with one grain and double the amount on all the other squares and you will be surprised at the result. There is not enough wheat in the world to cover the last square.

FIGHTS FOR LAND TITLE.

Washington, January 21.—The Secretary of the Interior has been cited to answer tomorrow the petition in the District Supreme Court filed by John D. Maxey who claims to be entitled to a land patent on property near Carson City, Nev. The plaintiff claims that the decision of the secretary declining to issue the patent abrogates an old and established rule of procedure in such case and is "arbitrary, whimsical and capricious," and that it is "tantamount to a confiscation of the property right for the use and benefit of the United States."

"You can publish this if you want to. It is a true statement without any trifles."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A Woman's Problem

How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from natural roots and herbs. Read these letters:

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have heat flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. MARGARET GRASSMAN, 759 N. Kinggold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for nervousness and dyspepsia, when I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and have them try it and they also have received good results from it."—Mrs.

lifeless body of his wife, Fred Berry, 38 years old, a painter, of Lexington, and Mrs. Anna Berry, were found dead early Thursday morning in a room at the boarding house of Mrs.
Joseph Bohannon.

The gas was turned on and burning in both stove and gas jet, which at first led to the belief that they had died from asphyxiation of gas fumes, but Coroner Leigh R. Gordon scorns this theory and believes that the woman murdered the man and then committed suicide.

HEAVIEST DEATH RATE

Ever Known In Fifteen Days At Louisville—Weird Weather Is Blamed.

(Louisville Times.)
The first fifteen days of January showed the heaviest mortality in the history of Louisville for a like period.
During those two weeks and a day there were 280 deaths reported. If this ratio is maintained for the entire month the death rate for January, 1916, will be greater by about twenty-five than that was March, 1914, when 438 persons died. The world weather of the new year is held responsible by the Health Department for the increased death rate. Everybody is urged to take every prevention to conserve his vitality by getting nimble sleep and practicing modernization in eating, drinking and working.

The total number of burial permits issued the first fifteen days of the year was 236. Six were for bodies shipped into Louisville for burial, making the exact number of deaths in the city in fifteen days 230. Health officials are certain this is the heaviest mortality for a like period of time ever recorded in Louisville. If the weather remains cold and settled they expect to see a tailing off in the number of deaths to the extent that the total for the month may go below the 400 mark.

When 438 deaths were recorded in March, 1914, the city was in the grip of a serious cerebro-spinal meningitis epidemic that had assumed such proportions that a special isolation hospital was opened to care for the victims of the dread disease. The month was dry, dusty and blustery and came at the end of a severe winter. At the present time the city is entirely free from an epidemic of any sort. Influenza has returned to normal for this period of the year, although many of the deaths for the first fifteen days of the year show the effects of the influenza epidemic in December, when no deaths were attributed to this malady.

The leading cause of death in the first fifteen days of 230 are tuberculosis, pneumonia, heart disease and diseases of the kidneys. There were fourteen deaths from influenza. Vitality weakened by unseasonable weather is responsible for the large number of deaths from organic troubles in the opinion of the Health Department. Bad weather conditions been more favorable these sufferers might have held on for months.

Two hundred and thirty deaths is about the average number for an entire month in the spring, summer and fall.
